Commerce and Finance

FEBRUARY 2025

COURSE DESCRIPTION

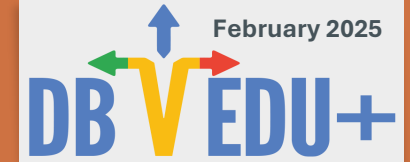

- Commerce is derived from the Latin commercial "trade, trafficking", from com, "with, together," and medium, "merchandise." Some commentators trace the origins of commerce to the very start of transactions in prehistoric times. Apart from traditional self-sufficiency, trading became a principal facility of prehistoric people, who bartered what they had for goods and services from each other.
- Historically, introducing currency as standardised money facilitated the broader exchange of goods and services. During the Middle Ages, European commerce developed by trading luxury goods at trade fairs.
- Today, commerce is a complex system that can be seen as a subset of itself. Companies within this system aim to maximise their profits by offering products and services to the market at the lowest production cost. This market, in turn, consists of actual groups and other companies or institutions. The term 'commerce' now encompasses exchanging goods and services and trading data, information, views, opinions, intellectual property, and visual recognition over the internet.
